Speak Up for Safety is a Tool For All of Us

Gerald Johnson, GMNA Vice President, Manufacturing & Labor

Team –

In manufacturing, we talk about safety each and every day. Most of our discussions center around what we need to do to live the values that return people home safely. Just as important is the work we do in manufacturing to ensure the safety of our vehicles.

Please take a moment to review how to engage with Speak Up for Safety. Any employee can report a vehicle safety concern, whether you notice it on the job, while driving one of our products or hear it from a friend or family member. We all have a role to play in the safety of our vehicles, so I encourage you to Speak Up for Safety. Use of this tool helps us keep our customers at the center of everything we do.
